Invitation and Call for Papers

Deutsches Institut
für Kautschuktechnologie e.V.

Invitation

Dear colleagues,

In my role as the Managing Director of Deutsches Institut für Kautschuktechnologie e. v. I would cordially invite you to take part in the 10th Fall Rubber Colloquium 2012, taking place from November 7 to November 9, 2012 in Hannover.

It is the tenth conference on rubber technology in this series. The previous conferences were highly successful and attracted delegates from a variety of disciplines from around the world. Delegates are encouraged to register both from outside and within Germany.

The conference highlights the latest and most important scientific concepts and advanced processing techniques in rubber and polymer science and technology. Experts from all over the world will give keynote presentations. Recognized industrial experts will identify future trends in the rubber industry. Basic researchers will present studies to understand, and therefore, predict the properties of final products.

Conference topics will be:

- New Polymers
- Thermoplastic Elastomers
- Reinforcement
- Vulcanization Chemistry
- Elastomer Physics
- Compounding Machinery and Mixing
- Extrusion, Calendering, Injection-Moulding
- Nanocomposite
- Tire Technology
- Additives and Modifiers
- Friction and Wear
- Aging, Life time prediction
- Simulations
- Elastomer Analysis
- Environment, Green technology

I would be glad to welcome you 2012 in Hannover.

Yours sincerely,

Prof. Dr. Ulrich Giese
